Background

Beginning more than 30 years ago, many states began experimenting with a new form of home and community-based care for individuals who were directing in-home services.

This alternative form of service delivery empowers individuals to direct their own care with the option of choosing some or all of their own care attendants and essentially serving as the direct employers of their caregivers.

The movement gradually gained in popularity because individuals were ready and willing to take charge of their own care and experienced greater satisfaction with their lives once they had done so.

In other states where the program has already been implemented, the level of satisfaction is reportedly very high.
Self-Directed Attendant Care

Self Directed Attendant Care is available as an option to those served under the Aged & Disabled Medicaid Waiver who qualify for attendant care.

The program allows for the hiring of a friend, neighbor, or formally trained person to serve as personal attendant, or

An individual may choose to advertise, interview and hire the best-qualified applicant.

Individuals may choose among the following options:

• choose Self-Directed Attendant Care, solely.
• combine Self-Directed Attendant Care with traditional agency-based services.
• utilize the traditional agency-based services they are familiar with.
Frequently Used Terms

Fiscal Intermediary: Public Partnerships, LLC (PPL) is the fiscal intermediary. This means that PPL will process payroll and taxes.

Individual or Waiver Program Participant: The Individual or waiver program participant is the person who receives attendant care through the Medicaid Aged and Disabled Waiver.

Representative: A voluntary, unpaid person who may be appointed to assist a waiver program participant in performing the responsibilities of the employer when the individual chooses not to do so independently.

Employer, or Employer of Record: This term refers to the person in the household directing the work of the employee. This may be the waiver program participant or a representative.

Employee: The person who provides services to the waiver program participant is the employee or personal attendant.
Role of the Representative

An individual may appoint a Representative to assist in performing the responsibilities of the employer.

The Representative may also be involved for support. Or, they may be involved in the beginning to get the bulk of the hiring and training and, then, be available on an as needed basis.

This position can be whatever the individual needs to fulfill their responsibilities as the employer.
Who can be a Representative?

Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

As an employer, the individual directing care or his or her representative takes on some responsibilities that he or she must be fully aware of. Employer Responsibilities include:

- Decide whom he wants to provide Self-Directed Attendant Care services and inform the case manager.

- Complete the required enrollment packet for the Self-Directed Attendant Care program independently, with the help of another person, or with the help of the case manager.
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

As an employer, the individual directing care or his or her representative takes on some responsibilities that he or she must be fully aware of. Employer Responsibilities include:

- Complete online training (alternate formats are available) and review a checklist that verifies his understanding of the program and its requirements.
- Train the caregiver according to his or her care needs. These must be within the scope of allowable activities. In some cases, the individual directing care may need to arrange for outside training, but the cost of this is not covered under the A & D Medicaid Waiver.
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

As an employer, the individual directing care or his or her representative takes on some responsibilities that he or she must be fully aware of. Employer Responsibilities include:

- Keep and send in timesheets or monitor telephone call-in and call-out times.
- Set-up a back-up plan for care when the attendant is unavailable. (see additional information on Slide entitled “Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities: Back Up Plan”)
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

Many tools are provided to the individual to aid in this process. Worksheets, included in the individual’s manual, can be used:

- to create a comprehensive list of the Individual’s needs,
- to develop a job description for employees and
- to outline a back up plan for care,
- to guide an individual through the interviewing and hiring process.
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

If a spend-down is required, an individual is responsible for paying for services until Medicaid services are activated.
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

Employer’s must have a back up plan the services they need. A back up plan may be designed many different ways, among options are:

- A second attendant, as a back-up plan
  - If paid, these attendants must be enrolled and meet same requirements.
  - If informal arrangement and not paid, no enrollment required for these back up attendants.
- It may be easier to have more than one regular attendants (employees) and ask them to back each other up, rather than having an attendant designated to be for back up purposes only.
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

Employer’s must have a back up plan the services they need. A back up plan may be designed many different ways, among options are:

- An Agency-based back-up plan
  - Make arrangements in advance with an agency. If an individual is still using an agency for other services (such as medical), the agency may be willing to provide back up services.
  - Arranging an agency for back up may be difficult. It is very difficult for them to schedule enough staff to cover their regular schedules. Adding for emergencies outside their normal services is very hard to anticipate.
  - If an agency agrees to be a back up, they are paid at their normal rate. They would be paid under the individual’s plan of care, but not within the Self-Directed Attendant Care program.
Individual / Employer’s Responsibilities

Please note that hours that are designated for back-up, if any, are not transferable to regular hours for services.
Who is eligible to be a Personal Attendant?

- Can be a family member (*see next slide)
- Must not have been convicted of a felony
